(54) Protective packaging for fragile products

(57) The invention relates to a protective packaging for fragile products comprising an outer box, a base plate (1) of a plastic foam material mounted on the bottom surface of said outer box, a profiled part (2) intended for receiving a product and a top plate of a plastic foam material to be fitted on top of the profiled part, said profiled part having a recess (16) which is bounded by a number of arched portions (4,5,6,7). Said arched portions allow for a clamping connection to the product, which is possible within a variable range by removable strips, and allow for additional shock-absorbing capability.
