(54) Title: APPARATUS FOR THE MEASUREMENT OF BREATHING

(57) Abstract: The invention provides an apparatus, attachable to the body, for the measurement of breathing, which comprises a part (2) that is attached to the body, on which a casing (1) containing a measurement apparatus has been attached. The measurement apparatus in the casing (1) comprises an alarm part (8) and an electric circuit (7), which shuts on and off according to the breathing. The alarm part (8) alarms when the electric circuit shuts off. A delay unit (6) has been connected to the electric circuit (7), with which the alarm part (8) can be adjusted to alarm after a desired amount of time has passed since the electric circuit (7) shut off. The electric circuit (7) can advantageously be formed partly of a spring (3), with which the electric circuit (7) can be adjusted to a desired tension to alarm at a desired breathing situation.

* Special categories of cited documents :

A document defining the general state of the art which is not considered to be of particular relevance

E earlier document but published on or after the international filing date

L document which may throw doubts on priority claim(s) or which is cited to establish the publication date of another citation or other special reason (as specified)

O document referring to an oral disclosure, use, exhibition or other means

P document published prior to the international filing date but later than the priority date claimed

T later document published after the international filing date or priority date and not in conflict with the application but cited to understand the principle or theory underlying the invention

X document of particular relevance; the claimed invention cannot be considered novel or cannot be considered to involve an inventive step when the document is taken alone

Y document of particular relevance; the claimed invention cannot be considered to involve an inventive step when the document is combined with one or more other such documents, such combination being obvious to a person skilled in the art.
