The present invention relates to seed treatment compositions comprising active ingredient and hyperbranched polymer. The hyperbranched polymer is used as seed coating agent, especially as a binder to promote adhesion of the active ingredient(s) to the seeds. The present invention also relates to methods of treating seed with such a composition.