(54) Method for providing function of writing text and function of clipping and electronic apparatus applying the same

(57) A method for providing a text writing function and a clipping function and an electronic apparatus applying the same are provided. If a command is input while content is being displayed, a text writing screen including information related to the content is displayed. Accordingly, since the content-related information is automatically displayed when the user writes text relating to the content, the user is not required to input the content-related information separately. Different template forms are provided for different categories of book.
