(54) Title: SERVICE PROVISIONING SYSTEM

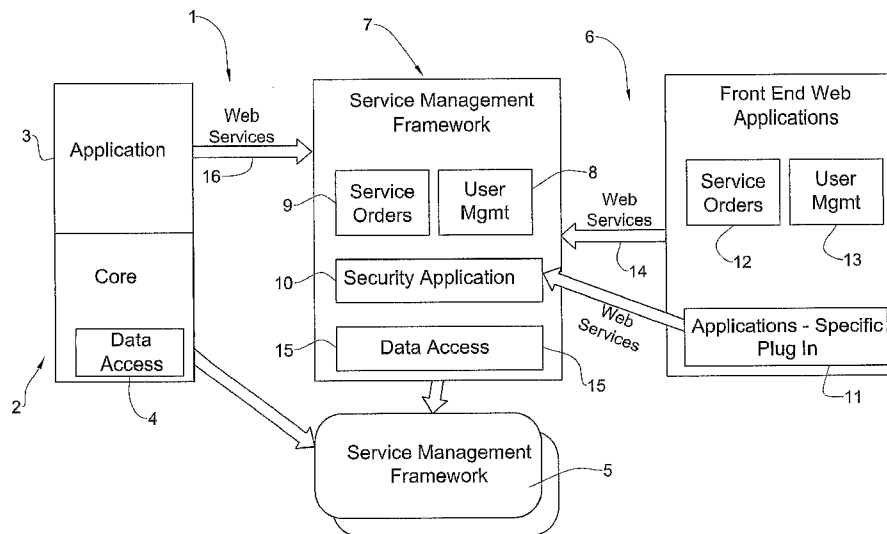

FIG. 1

(57) Abstract: A method for generating objects which facilitate access of application platform system and service provisioning system to a shared database. The method includes generating automatically objects for incorporating in the application platform system as well as objects for incorporating in the provisioning system. The generated objects facilitate access of the application platform system to the shared database, and further facilitate access of the service provisioning system to the shared database.
