UNITED STATES PATENT OFFICE.

JOSEPH LOCKE, OF TOLEDO, OHIO, ASSIGNOR TO THE W. L. LIBBEEY & SON COMPANY, OF SAME PLACE.

DESIGN FOR A CELERY-DISH.

SPECIFICATION forming part of Design No. 19,313, dated September 10, 1889.
Application filed April 6, 1889. Serial No. 306,358. Term of patent 3½ years.

To all whom it may concern:

Be it known that I, JOSEPH LOCKE, a citizen of the United States, residing at Toledo, in the county of Lucas and State of Ohio, have invented a certain new and original Design for Celery-Dishes or Similar Articles of Glassware; and I do hereby declare that the following is a full, clear, and exact description of the invention, which will enable others skilled in the art in which it appertains to make and use the same, reference being had to the accompanying drawing, and to the letters of reference marked thereon, which form part of this specification.

This design relates to the shape and ornamentation of celery-dishes and similar articles.

In the drawing I have shown a celery-dish embodying my design.

The leading features of my design are the representation of an ear of corn having its upper central portion made bulging, as shown, and slightly contracted at its lower portion, with a portion of the husk cleaving thereto, and flaring downwardly and outwardly at the bottom, as shown, to form a base.

Referring to the drawing, A designates the base, converging upwardly, as shown, having a representation of short husks at the base of the ear, and from which extend a number of longer husks B, which lie in irregular order upon the contracted lower portion of the ear C. The ear is represented by rows of kernels C, extending vertically upon the dish, thus presenting to the eye the rustic representation of an ear of corn. The ear is made slightly bulging above the husk portion.

Having thus described my design, what I claim is—

The design for the shape and ornamentation of a celery-dish or similar articles, substantially as herein shown and described.

In testimony that I claim the foregoing as my own I hereby affix my signature in presence of two witnesses.

JOSEPH LOCKE.
