(54) Title: LIGHT WAND FOR HEALING TISSUE

(57) Abstract: A light wand includes light emitting diodes that transmit monochromatic light for a therapeutic response. The monochromatic light provides healing and relieves pain from such conditions as, for example, abrasions, cuts, wounds, acne, and other skin conditions. Pulsed light and/or a constant light stream are emitted from the wand under the user's control. Intensity of the light energy is also controlled by the user through a control pad on the light wand. The light wand is portable and dimensioned for consumer use.
