(54) Title: PEOPLE LISTS

(57) Abstract: Enabling management of contacts includes creating a single list of contacts that is stored in a central repository (380). A member (305) is enabled to define a group of contacts from the single list of contacts and represent the group of contacts by a unique identifier (430). The member is enabled to address communications sent from multiple applications to the group of contacts represented by the unique identifier.
