Title: STYLUS FOR SURGICAL NAVIGATION SYSTEM

(57) Abstract: A stylus (10) for a tracking device of a surgical navigation system includes a handle (14), a removable tip (12), a rivet (28) adapted to hold a sensor within a fluid-tight compartment, and two opposing pushbuttons (16, 18), one or both of which can activate the sensor. The dual pushbuttons (16) enable a surgeon to simultaneously apply equal but oppositely directed radial forces to both sides of the handle (14) during registration of a fiducial marker, thereby to eliminate and/or reduce undesired movement of the tip during pushbutton depression, and also to provide redundancy in activating the sensor. The tip (12) removably mounts to the handle (14) in a keyed manner, via a guide boss (32) and slot (22), to assure proper connection of the desired tip (12) at a known fixed distance between a distal end of the tip (12) and the handle (14). The stylus (10) enables the handle (14) and rivet to interchangeably connect to one of a number of differently sized or shaped tips, to allow the surgeon to select the tip which best suits a particular need.

Special categories of cited documents:

- "A" document defining the general state of the art which is not considered to be of particular relevance
- "E" earlier application or patent published on or after the international filing date
- "L" document which may throw doubts on priority claim(s) or which is cited to establish the publication date of another citation or other special reason (as specified)
- "O" document referring to an oral disclosure, use, exhibition or other means
- "P" document published prior to the international filing date but later than the priority date claimed
- "T" later document published after the international filing date or priority date and not in conflict with the application but cited to understand the principle or theory underlying the invention
- "X" document of particular relevance; the claimed invention cannot be considered novel or cannot be considered to involve an inventive step when the document is taken alone
- "Y" document of particular relevance; the claimed invention cannot be considered to involve an inventive step when the document is combined with one or more other such documents, such combination being obvious to a person skilled in the art
- "&" document member of the same patent family
