 (57) Abstract:

The present invention relates to a method for a vehicle start of a vehicle convoy (1A; 1B) for passenger transport along a predetermined route. The vehicle convoy (1A; 1B) comprises at least two mutually separated vehicle units (2, 3; 2, 3, 4), one of the vehicle units being a leading vehicle unit (2), said vehicle units being mutually wirelessly interconnected. The method comprises the steps of: determining (S1) whether criteria for allowing a vehicle start of all vehicle units (2, 3; 2, 3, 4) of the vehicle convoy (1A; 1B) are fulfilled; and activating (S2) synchronized vehicle start for all vehicle units (2, 3; 2, 3, 4) of the vehicle convoy.

The present invention also relates to a system for a vehicle start of a vehicle convoy for passenger transport along a predetermined route. The present invention also relates to a vehicle convoy. The present invention also relates to a computer program and a computer program product.
