MATILDA RICHEY WELLMAN, OF MONTVALE, NEW JERSEY.

PSYCHIC DEVICE.

Application filed March 13, 1925. Serial No. 15,367.

To all whom it may concern:

Be it known that I, MATILDA RICHEY WELLMAN, a citizen of the United States, residing at Montvale, in the county of Bergen and State of New Jersey, have invented an original Psychic Device, of which the following is a specification, reference being had to the accompanying drawing, forming a part thereof.

This invention relates to a psychic device and has for its object to provide, in a manner as hereinafter set forth, a new, novel, and improved device of such class, capable, when used, to provide for interesting and amusing demonstrations of psychic powers.

Further objects of the invention are to provide, in a manner as hereinafter set forth, a psychic device, which is simple in its construction and arrangement, strong, durable, conveniently used, and inexpensive to manufacture.

With the foregoing and other objects in view, the invention consists of the novel construction, combination and arrangement of parts, as hereinafter more specifically described and illustrated in the accompanying drawings, wherein is shown an embodiment of the invention, but it is to be understood that changes, variations and modifications can be resorted to which come within the scope of the claims hereunto appended.

In the drawings wherein like reference characters denote corresponding parts throughout the several views:—

A psychic device, in accordance with this invention, comprises a reference designating element and a traversing element, and the former consists of a rectangular board A provided with two spaced sets of rows of spaced traversing element receiving sockets and with the rows of sockets of one set arranged in alignment with respect to the rows of sockets of the other set. The rows of sockets are disposed lengthwise with respect to the outer face of the board A. The rows of sockets of one set are indicated at B, C, D, E, F, G, H and I. The rows of sockets of the other set are indicated at J, K, L, M, N, O, P and Q. The rows of sockets of each set are arranged in spaced relation with respect to each other.

Each of the sockets of the rows of each of the sets, with the exception of the rows of sockets I and Q, has associated therewith a reference designation, and each of said designations consists of a number, as at R. The number designation for each socket of a row is different, and the numerical designations for one row of sockets are different throughout with respect to the numerical designations of any one of the other rows of sockets. The number designations of each row are not arranged chronologically. The number designations preferably are arranged above the sockets of a row. The number of the numerically designated sockets of each row can be as any desired, or one row can contain a greater or less number than an adjacent row, preferably the number of the sockets of the row will be eight or more.

The number of the sockets of the rows I and Q is thirteen and each of the sockets of the row I, as well as each of the sockets of the row Q, has associated therewith a letter of the alphabet, as indicated at S. The alphabet reference designations for the rows of sockets I and Q are not in proper sequence with respect to the arrangement of the letters of the alphabet.

Arranged between the sets of sockets is a pair of oppositely extending inclined rows of sockets T, U, and the sockets of each of said rows have associated therewith a reference designation in the form of a number, as indicated at V.

Arranged below the sockets U, V is a pair of spaced sockets W, X, each having an indication associated therewith. The indication for the socket W is designated Y, and is the word "Yes", and the indication for the socket X is designated Z and is the word "No".

Arranged between the sets of rows of sockets and below the sockets W and X are three sockets a, b and c, spaced from each other and each of which has associated therewith an indication consisting of the words "Not correct" for the socket a, as at d, the words "Good night" for the socket b, as at e, and the word "Correct" for the socket c, as at f.

The traversing element is indicated at A' and is in the form of a tapered plug of substantial length and of a length to be grasped by the fingers and thumb and to project above the hand of the demonstrator when the element A' is used for the purpose of obtaining a psychic demonstration.

The reference designation for each of the sockets referred to, and as before stated, is in the form of a number, and the function of the number is to indicate on a reference chart a psychic development of the individual as the chart will contain a corresponding list of numerical reference designations and opposite each thereof will be an explanation as to the meaning of a reference designation, so that there will be explained the meaning of all of the reference designations to a demonstrator. The explanation of the reference designations will be as follows:—

60 The rows of spaces I and Q, together with their associated indications, such as letters of the alphabet, are provided for spelling out the names of persons or objects.

65 The device is employed to develop one's psychic powers and to show the degree of development by the use of the reference designating element in connection with the traversing element and the device is used in the following manner:—

The traversing element is held in a manner as when one is going to write a letter and when held, preferably the arm should be free from the board A. The feet should not be crossed but placed flat on the floor. It usually takes from five to ten minutes before the traversing element starts moving and when moving it will usually travel in a circle, or up and down the board A, but the demonstrator should let the traversing element stray where it will. The traversing element moves to get the force. Finally it will enter one of the sockets and the explanation relative to the number designation in connection with such socket can be had by reference to the chart of explanation. The device can be used in the dark or light. If the demonstrator sits in the dark, there should be a small lamp so that after the traversing element has entered a socket, the number designation for such socket can be ascertained. The more people who sit with the demonstrator, the more force will be obtained for writing and spelling out objects from the alphabet associated with the rows I and Q. When the messages are not correct, the traversing element should enter socket a, "Not correct", or if correct, the element should enter socket c. The demonstrator may not obtain the messages correct at once, or the traversing element may not move until the operator sits a number of times. When the traversing element goes to the socket b "Good night," the use of the device should be discontinued.

The reference designating element may consist of a sheet of any suitable character or finish or a rigid panel or plate member for the top of a table or stand, or a table top, and the traversing element can be constructed of any suitable material.

While in the foregoing there has been illustrated and described such combination and arrangement of elements as constitute the preferred embodiment of a psychic device, in accordance with this invention, for practicing and developing psychic demonstrations, it is nevertheless desired to emphasize the fact that an interpretation of the invention should only be conclusive when made in accordance with the scope of the invention as claimed.
