

UNITED STATES PATENT OFFICE.

DAVID DAVIS, OF SHEAKLEYVILLE, PENNSYLVANIA.

IMPROVEMENT IN MEDICAL COMPOUNDS.

Specification forming part of Letters Patent No. 134,129, dated December 24, 1872.

To all whom it may concern:

Be it known that I, DAVID DAVIS, of Sheakleyville, in the county of Mercer and State of Pennsylvania, have invented a certain Medical Compound, called "Dr. D. Davis' Pain-Panacea," to be used as a medicine, either internally or externally, for the cure of the following complaints, viz: Cramp-colic, cholera, cholera morbus, dysentery, diarrhea, neuralgia, rheumatism, spinal affections, pains in the back or side, ear-ache, head-ache, fever and ague, sore throat, diphtheria, quinsy, biliousness, gravel, affections of kidneys and bladder, chilblains, dysmenorrhea, swellings, bruises, cuts, burns, inflamed eyes, coughs and colds, poisoning by vines, bites, or stings of insects or rabid animals, of which the following is a specification:

The nature of the invention of the said DAVID DAVIS consists in mixing the following ingredients, viz: Oil of hemlock, two ounces; oil of organum, four ounces; oil of sassafras, two ounces; oil of rosemary, two ounces; oil of peppermint, one-fourth of one ounce; oil of spike, one ounce; castor-oil, three ounces; spirits of camphor, two ounces; alcoholic tincture of smart-weed, four ounces; alcoholic tincture of capsicum, four ounces; alcoholic tincture gum guaiac, two ounces; chloroform, four ounces; sulphuric ether, two ounces; alcohol, one gallon, colored with tincture of alkanet root.

As soon as the above ingredients are thoroughly mixed together the medicine is ready for use.

I claim as my invention—

A medical compound called "Dr. D. Davis' Pain-Panacea," composed of the above-named ingredients, and in the proportions and for the purposes set forth above.

DAVID DAVIS.
