Title: ELECTROMAGNETIC FIELD REGULATING COMPOSITIONS

Abstract: A cosmetic or pharmaceutical emulsion composition that is topically applied to the skin to protect it against damage caused by electromagnetic field generated from everyday appliances such as televisions, computers and cellular phones. The compositions contain ambient electromagnetic wave dampening effective amounts of at least one single domain magnet as the sole magnetic component and a non-magnetic ionic component. The sole magnetic component works particularly well in the composition of the present invention when it comprises granulate and when the composition is an oil in water emulsion.

* Special categories of cited documents:
  * "A" document defining the general state of the art which is not considered to be of particular relevance
  * "E" earlier application or patent published on or after the international filing date
  * "L" document which may throw doubts on priority claim(s) or which is cited to establish the publication date of another application or other special reason (as specified)
  * "O" document referring to an oral disclosure, use, exhibition or other means
  * "P" document published prior to the international filing date but later than the priority date claimed
  * "T" later published document after the international filing date or priority date and not in conflict with the application but cited to understand the principle or theory underlying the invention
  * "X" document of particular relevance; the claimed invention cannot be considered novel or cannot be considered to involve an inventive step when the document is taken alone
  * "Y" document of particular relevance; the claimed invention cannot be considered to involve an inventive step when the document is combined with one or more other such documents, such combination being obvious to a person skilled in the art
  * "&" document member of the same patent family
