(54) Title: SYSTEM AND METHOD FOR UPDATING A SEARCH RESULTS PAGE IN RESPONSE TO A USER MAP INTERACTION

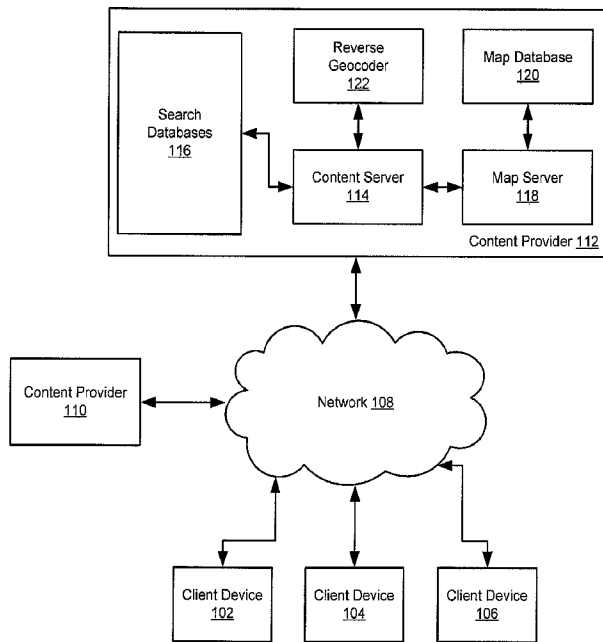

FIG. 1

(57) Abstract: The present invention is directed towards systems and methods for updating a search results page in response to user interaction with a map resource. The method of the present invention comprises receiving a first search results page in response to a search query comprising at least a first map resource. The method monitors a change in position of a map resource in response to a user interaction and calculates a location corresponding to a map position. The method then re-executes at least one search query based upon said calculated location and displays a second search results page comprising a plurality of updated search results.
