Horace Naramore. Caledonia N. York

Letters Patent Nov. 24. 1834.

The Schedule referred to in these Letters Patent and making part of the same containing a description in the words of the said Horace Naramore himself of this improvement in the form of the Scythe for cutting grain & grass

To all to whom these presents shall come.

Be it known that I Horace Naramore of Caledonia in the County of Livingston and State of New York have invented a new and useful improvement consisting in an improvement in the form of the Scythe for cutting Grain and Grass and the following is a full and exact description of the same as improved by me — The length of the said Scythe 4 feet. the width in the widest part 4 inches differing from the Scythe already known and in common use in the following particulars. firstly more circular in form. and the major part of the cradle being at the heal end of the Scythe instead of at the point receiving it from the usual method. those made for cutting grain when connected with the grain cradle. the heal is recessed from the common method which is a considerable convenience in fastening the Scythe to the snead of the cradle. The same form of Scythe is recommended for cutting grass with the following exceptions. the Scythe should be made narrower and thicker as more may be had to the common grass as to those particulars. also the heal turns the same way as in the Scythe already known. I would reject that the Scythe in both instances may be advantageously annexed to the snead by means of screws — What I claim as any invention or discovery is the shape or form of the Scythe as described together with the method of fastening them to the snead by means of screws. I do not confine my improvement to any particular length or breadth but claim the advantage of manufacturing the Scythe to any convenient size which shall come within the general rule
